Million worthy argument. I too keep expressing the same to my acquaintances... Having enjoyed every day of my work...

Not worth working for living. Work to Live, Learn, Love and Share...!

Absolute truth... The truthfulness comes with curses called Distrust to go collective and to some extent Arrogance to gel well. In other words Rigid. On the contrary liars learn it fast that Trust and Accommodating other liars are crucial to play long innings. Very Flexible! These are rational things.

WE ARE THE UNORGANIZED TRUTH,
FIGHTING AN ORGANIZED LIE.

Except the part that 'Intelligence Leads to Higher Income' I tend to agree.

If Intelligent then must not yearn for Higher Income. Since Intelligent ones Know Income cannot buy peace and prosperity.

Simply elegant and emotional profession...so much needed in this lonely planet now... Love the idea ! When I spend a few hours daily counseling people for different reasons (as passion not as profession also since I am lonely) , I relate with him how we are desperately in need of companions with listening EARS..

Fully agree with the text below ! Except that this text is not only for suicide seekers but also those who feel alone since their close ones are technologised.

For those who are glued to the virtual world think that they have more people in the network which presumably makes connection to them more interesting and important whereas connecting physically to few people that too the regular family and friends may not be so interesting and important to them Anyway the main text follows :

Virtual world is just vapor. when it comes to reality check it's a handful of people that help and warm your heart !

A reminder for my friends and family that I'm here if you ever need me. My place is safe. Coffee can be on in minutes and the kitchen table can be cleared in a moment - it is a place of peace and non-judgement. Anyone who needs to chat is welcome anytime. Never suffer in silence. I have food in the fridge (or I can order pizza), coffee and tea in the cupboard, listening ears, shoulders to cry on and love & thoughts to share. If you prefer a glass of wine or a beer I can have that available too.

This is an old value that has been lost to technology.

A text, face-time, or emoji is not always the equivalent of making time for those we love or care.

Question is: Do people (both rich-poor) want to break away from capitalism in the fear of survival and comfort. The need and greed is a difficult introspection to do.
